CIRCULAR SAWS,

AND MANDRELS FOR CIRCULAR SAWS;
For sale by H. W. CORBETT.

FROM IDAHO.

We clip the following from the Avalanche of August 18th:

OFFICIAL VOTE OF OWYHEE COUNTY.

We are indebted to Caldwell Wright, Esq., for a tabular form of the Owyhee County election returns, which will appear next week. We note the vote of a few principal officers: For Congress—Holbrook, 675; Kirkpatrick, 551—Holbrook's majority, 124. Sheriff—A. C. Springer, 620; G. W. Anderson, 564—Springer's majority, 56; Recorder—L. W. Greenwel, 655, R. E. Bullock, 551—Greenwell's majority, 104. The whole vote of the county was 1239. Excepting the Sheriff—Mr. Springer—the entire Democratic ticket was elected in Owyhee, by majorities ranging from one hundred to one hundred and forty.

MILITARY MOVEMENTS.

General McDowell, Major R. C. Kirkham and Dr. Denny, of the U. S. A., arrived at Summit Lake, on the Chico road, on the 12th instant. The General has provided the California & Idaho Stage Company with another company of cavalry and one of infantry, which we believe will give the road the necessary protection.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.

A man named Fisher came to his death on Monday last, between Reynolds' Creek and Snake River, under the following circumstances: In coming down a hill with a loaded wagon, the brake gave way and threw him off forward, and a wheel passed over his body. The injuries received proved fatal in a few hours afterwards.

A letter from Ruby City says: On the 14th inst., immediately after dinner, in the upper drift or tunnel on the Allison mine, which is located about one mile above Silver City, a slide or cave from solid rock, which had been tried and supposed to be safe by the miners working there, took place, falling upon a young man, Mr. B. F. Stevens, (familiarly known as Frank Stevens), who was engaged in wheeling rock from the tunnel, and who had just gone in with his wheelbarrow to get a load, and had stopped to drop his barrow when the rock fell on his back, killing him instantly. The rock, by active exertions, was soon removed from his body, though no hope could have been entertained of finding him alive. * * * He has a mother and sisters living in or near Dundaff, Pa., and also a brother near Salem, Oregon.

MINING NEWS.

We noted the purchase of this ledge (the Silver Cord) last week, by the Cosmos Company. Work is being vigorously prosecuted in two tunnels and two shafts. Ore looks very flattering in both shafts and upper tunnel. Have just reached a point in the lower tunnel where good rock is making its appearance. The vein has been traced for two thousand feet and holds an average width of three feet.

D. H. Jackson has a force of men on the "Vulcan," the first claim in the ledge northwest of the "Cord." He finds good ore and a good sized vein. J. A. Lytle & Co. have struck it to the south-east with good indications.

The following is a list of the mills running: Lincoln, 20 stamps; New York and Owyhee, 10 stamps; Ainsworth, 10 stamps; New York and Oro Fino, 20 stamps; Cosmos, 10 stamps; Morning Star, 10 stamps; ... 5 stamps; Webfoot, 5 stamps; and Morse & Vass, 4 stamps—in all, 82 stamps. The Shoenbar is expected to start up soon, and should it do so, there will be 92 stamps in operation, which is pretty good—considering that one year ago there were only 27 in the county.

Seven months ago Huter and Johnson resumed prospecting for a ledge they believed to exist on War Eagle, from the large quantity of float quartz found in the vicinity. They spent considerable time in the Fall of '65, without success, but not discouraged. In January they commenced again, determined to spend the Summer. During all this time they paid their expenses by pounding, by hand, gold out of the float quartz. The ledge was finally discovered a few days ago. It is sixteen inches in width at the depth of fourteen feet. At the point of discovery, near the surface, it was only five inches. It is gradually widening, and is solid quartz. Tests by hand-mortar process give $200 per ton. Free gold is visible in much of the rock, but that portion in which it is invisible is found to be equally as rich as the other.

Of the Poorman, the Avalanche says:

We noticed a pile of Poorman bricks and crude bullion in Blake's assay office that was pleasant to behold. As yet, the most of the ore worked has come from the old works, though shafts are down, at a distance of two hundred feet apart, to the depth of eighty and over one hundred feet each. In the north shaft the ore is decidedly improving, and that in the south one has been, and continues to be rich enough to satisfy the most worldly minded.

'Bannock' dust, as it now pays, is not worth over $13 to $14 per ounce.

SHOT BY INDIANS.

Wm. Day was shot in the leg on Wednesday by Indians on Cow Creek under the following circumstances: Was driving an ox team for Mr. Huff from Arnold's to Smith's ranch. He was on horseback, and the Indians fired from secret places in the rocks. First shot took effect about six inches above the ankle and shattered the bone in a most dangerous manner. He escaped, leaving the team. Mr. Mosier soon came up, saw four Indians, fired several shots, drove off the rascals with some lead in their hides, and then brought the team into the ranch. Dr. Woodson was summoned to attend Mr. Day. On yesterday he was brought to the Miners' Home in Silver. His wound is certainly dangerous, and the ball still remains in his leg.

PROFITS OF HURDY-GURDYISM.

We have it on good authority that one hurdy-gurdy shebang shipped $8,000 as the net proceeds of its July business. As the bar gets one-half, it made in all, over $16,000 in one month. Thus it will be seen that these leeches corral more clear cash than most quartz mills.

The following is from the Boise Statesman of the 21st:

RUBY CITY AND STAR CITY STAGE LINE.

A company of eight or ten men start for Ruby this morning, for the purpose of putting the stage line between Ruby and Star City in running order. Men, horses, wagons, and all necessary equipments are to be taken along, and stations to be built where needed. It is the intention to have the stage running about the sixth of September.

MOVEMENT OF LUMBER.

Great piles of lumber moving behind long strings of oxen, continue to arrive from the mountains, some of it bound for Owyhee and some for the different yards in this place. The trade is evidently increasing.

THE "ROUTE" QUESTION.

We advise Oregon folks and Californians to content themselves by doing a share of the business with the Northern mines without enjoying a monopoly. A large share of the passenger travel has already slipped away from them already. With the freight it ... as it is different. Chico is a tough road to travel, and a long one, too, for bull teams with heavy loads, but many difficulties will be overcome in another year. But after all the Columbia route will carry most of our freight till the railroad reaches the Big Bend of the Truckee, when this new route will give it a heavier competition than Chico ever can. This is the present aspect of the "route question."

FROM MONTANA.

We clip the subjoined items from the Virginia City Post of August 11th:

NEW LODES DISCOVERED.

During the week fifteen new quartz lodes have been recorded in the County Recorder's books. Four of these lodes are located in the Silver Star District, and the remaining eleven, in Summit, Nevada and Junction districts. The discoveries in Summit are said to be very good.

ELK-HORN BAR DIGGINGS.

Elk-Horn Bar, which for some time past has been considered worked out, is being worked with hydraulics, and with the most flattering results. Experienced miners tell us that the west side hills along Alder gulch, from Bear town to Junction, will pay, from rim-rock to summit, more than wages when properly worked.

WIGWAM GULCH.

We learn from a gentleman just in from Wigwam Gulch that there are eight men at work on the bed-rock drain ditch in that gulch, and from the prospects found, so far, they will, when the ground is opened properly, have a "big thing." The dirt prospects finely from the top, and with hydraulics and plenty of water, which we understand, can be procured with very little labor or expense, there is not a probability of doubt remaining in regard to the pay that may be obtained.

DISCOVERY OF COAL AND FIRE-CLAY.

Professor Eaton arrived in town, on Tuesday last, from Bannack City, whither he has been, for the purpose of looking after his quartz interests. The Professor informs us that he has discovered in that section, both coal and fire-clay, two articles which are almost indispensable in a quartz mining country; the fire-clay, especially, as it is much needed in the construction of smelting furnaces—of which there are a dozen or more being built in Bannack and Rattlesnake districts.

EXODUS OF GRASSHOPPERS.

These destructive pests appear to have come to the conclusion that their time is about up in Montana, and as a consequence they have been leaving in vast swarms and clouds, frequently of sufficient density to obscure the rays of the sun. Gentlemen who have watched the movements of these destroyers, say that they have deposited their eggs in the side hills bounding the Madison valley and other localities, and have departed.

TIN LODE.

Capt. Maltby has discovered a lode in Hot Spring District, which is pronounced by old Cornish miners, to have every indication of being a first class tin lode.

GRAIN TRADE WITH AUSTRALIA.—A correspondent of the Bulletin writing from Melbourne, June 12th, in relation to this subject says:

I see the San Francisco merchants are sending large quantities of flour here, and they are right, and will be for the next six months from this date. The winter has just commenced, and it promises to be a rainy one, consequently it may be reasonably expected that the harvest of February will be a good one. Until then the colonies will have to depend upon what they get from California and Chili. There has been a fall in the price, but it will not go much lower until the harvest period, and then it will no doubt experience a decline, but of course the consumption, which is very great, is still going on, so that I think shippers are safe till next October, or later, when, in the face of an ascertained good harvest, prices will fall.

It is stated that at a recent informal meeting of General Grant's staff and several prominent officers of the regular army, the subject of the General's new insignia was discussed, and those present concurred in the opinion that a metallic shield, substituted for the largest star in the shoulder-strap, would be an appropriate device to indicate the rank of the chief commanding officer of the armies.

The following is a correct list of the new English Ministry under Lord Derby. Lord Derby has formed his Ministry entirely from the ranks of the Tory party, and out of fourteen Cabinet offices nine are filled by men who held office in the Derby government of 1858-9.

Premier—Earl of Derby. This nobleman is 67 years of age, and entered Parliament as Mr. Stanley in 1821. He made his maiden speech in 1824 and won high encomiums, and was a few months afterwards recognized as one of the ablest debaters in the House of Commons. He was inducted into office as Under Secretary of the Colonies in 1826, in George Canning's Ministry. In 1834 his grandfather died and his father succeeded to the Earldom, the Hon. Mr. Stanley became by courtesy Lord Stanley. In 1844, he was raised to the peerage by being created Baron Stanley of Bickerstaffe. In 1851 his father died, and he became Earl of Derby, and possessor of the vast ancestral estates.

Chancellor of the Exchequer—Right Honorable B. Disraeli, author and politician, entered Parliament in 1837. He had previously sought to be elected for Wycombe, and O'Connell, who was interested in the canvass, in a public altercation with Disraeli, retorted: "For aught I know the present Disraeli is the true heir at law of the impenitent thief who died on the cross." Disraeli made his reputation as a debater by attacking Sir Robert Peel's defection from the Conservative ranks, and conversion to free trade principles. In 1849 he was recognized leader of the Tories in the Commons. In 1852 he was Chancellor of the Exchequer, and holds the position now for the future time.

Foreign Secretary.—Lord Stanley, son and heir of the Premier, entered Parliament in 1848, and was made Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs in his father's ministry in 1852. He has traveled in Canada, the United States, and the East and West Indies. He has always taken a deep interest in the welfare and intellectual improvement of the working classes, and to his humane exertions for their benefit may be attributed much of his popularity. He is a liberal conservative. In the last Tory Ministry he was Secretary for India.

Secretary for the Colonies.—Lord Carnarvon. His father having died while he was young, he entered the House of Peers on attaining his majority. He bears a high character for his social qualities, but does not obtain credit for much ability. He was Under-Colonial Secretary in the last Tory Ministry.

Home Secretary.—The Rt. Hon. Spencer Walpole holds the seals of the Home office. He is a man of great ability, and is a great grandson of the famous Sir Robert Walpole, first Earl of Oxford.

President of the Poor Law Board.—Gathorne Hardy is the man who defeated Gladstone for the University at Oxford at the last election. He has not distinguished himself hitherto, but his friends prophesy great things for him.

First Lord of the Admiralty.—Sir John Packington, an able man and a warm enthusiast in educational matters. He opposed free trade, showed considerable acquaintance with commerce and tariffs, and Sir Robert Peel, in spite of their political differences, offered him a baronetcy. He held the same office in '58-9 as in this Ministry, and attracted some attention by his boast that he would "reconstruct the navy."

Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.—Lord John Manners, the hero of Disraeli's novel, "Coningsby," was the leader of a white-waistcoated Young England party, but has turned out a political failure. His appointment as Viceroy of Ireland is considered the weakest Lord Derby has made.

Secretary for India.—Lord Cranbourn, son of the Marquis of Salisbury, held subordinate offices in one of Lord Derby's former Cabinets. He is a fair speaker, and has raised himself into considerable prominence during the late debates.

Secretary for War.—Jas. Peel has occupied the same position before. He is the youngest son of the first Sir Robert Peel and uncle of the present Baronet. He is slow and prejudiced, and carries no weight in Parliament beyond what his name and social rank give him.

Lord High Chancellor.—Lord Chelmsford, the "elegant Thesiger," the most popular pleader at the English bar, was raised to the peerage in 1858, and held the Great Seal in 1858–9. He is 72 years of age.

President of the Council.—Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, was in the last Tory Cabinet as a Lord Commissioner of the Treasury. He is distinguished not only for the historical lustre of his family, but for his noble self-sacrifice in giving up his life interest in the Buckingham estates to meet his father's liabilities.

President of the Board of Trade.—Sir Stafford Northcote, Bart., was once private Secretary to Gladstone; was Financial Secretary of the Treasury with the Tories in 1859. He is a lawyer by permission, and a man of great ability, and looks forward some day to be Conservative Chancellor of the Exchequer.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—Before its adjournment, the United States Senate disposed of the proposition to aid the Northern Pacific Railroad, by postponing the pending bill until next December and adopting the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be requested to furnish to the Senate such information as may be in the possession of the War Department touching the probable cost of constructing a railroad on the route mentioned in the charter of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, together with estimates of the probable amount of Government transportation on said road, derived from such data as may be in his power, and that the Secretary of the Interior render him such aid as he may call for in answering this resolution.

Hypocritical Professions of Conversion

> We feel too good over the flattering prospects of a Union restored and of constitutional rights re-established and reconfirmed to [illegible] boastingly claim that the principles enunciated by the Philadelphia Convention and by the President of the United States are those of the Democracy to-day [illegible] upon the main questions have been theirs since the days of Thomas Jefferson

In this bunglingly constructed sentence there is a full admission that the "principles enunciated by the Philadelphia Convention" and now endorsed by the Democracy, differ entirely from those hitherto promulgated by that party In other words the Democracy profess to have abandoned the principles which "have been theirs since the days of Jefferson," and to have accepted the radically different theory of politics put forth by the author of the address adopted by the Philadelphia Convention The Review declares that its party has reversed its principles It does not pretend that in endorsing the address of the Philadelphia Convention, it is approving the same principles its party always held It professes a total change of political faith, and admits that its party is going over to Johnson, has abandoned its old "landmarks" We wish we could be assured that these professions of a new faith are perfectly sincere; for though the Philadelphia platform does not go far enough, and evades the leading issues now before the country, it is a vast improvement on any Democratic platform we have had for years It announces some doctrines of a national character—as the complete supremacy of the Federal Government and the subordination of the States, under the Constitution, thereto, while the Democratic party has always asserted contrary principles It would be something to have the anti national party so far converted to national ideas as to accept this doctrine in all sincerity, but it is not easy to believe that the political change of heart which they profess, is anything more than mere simulation

The alacrity with which the Democratic party springs to the support of principles directly antagonistic to those which it has formerly advocated, at once raises a suspicion whether Democrats are not acting in the matter with a perfect consciousness that the professions of the Johnson party are a mere sham—well enough as a device to obtain power, but not to be adhered to afterwards For just so surely as the coalition succeeds, will Seward, Doolittle, Cowan, and others of their class who are managers now, be dismissed from the leadership and that before another election, when there will be nothing to prevent the Democratic managers from re-affirming the principles they now pretend to abjure and pledging the party anew to its old dogmas. This the Copperheads are perfectly aware of They know that if they can gain a victory now on the basis of the Philadelphia address, they can have it all their own way afterwards A professed change of principles will serve very well with them until they regain power, when they will go back at once to the old "landmarks," and claim great credit for reviving the principles which they received from the great apostle of secession, Thomas Jefferson

Though Secretary Seward has declared it, and though Democratic journals confess it, we wholly discredit the idea that this party has been truly "converted." At all events, it will be better for the country to wait for more satisfactory evidences of the genuineness of its conversion, before reposing full faith in professions which are yet much too recent to be implicitly relied on. Though they protest that they have changed their principles, they do it through imperative necessity, and we may be sure that if they gain a triumph, the time will come with them when

> Ease will recant
> Vows made in pain, as violent and void.

If the conversion of rebels and Copperheads is genuine we have this to say, that so large a number was never before convinced of the error of their ways in so short a time.

Super serviceable Zeal

We are informed that Nesmith's supporters in several parts of the State, conscious of having failed to elect enough Democrats and "go-betweens" to insure the re-election of their master, are circulating petitions to urge or instruct Union members to vote for him. This is positively the latest dodge of Nesmith's little coterie of purchased lackeys In Wasco county an attempt of this kind is making to induce Senator Donnell to give Nesmith his vote. The petition, we learn, is headed by Judge Wilson, who is making himself unusually active in Nesmith's cause It strikes us that the Judge and his associates are engaged in a bootless enterprise. Mr Donnell is a Union man of the genuine stamp, and no one who knows him will believe that he would, under any circumstances, vote for a man who opposed Lincoln, and is not now nor ever was a member of the Union party As for Judge Wilson and a few others who are laboring so painfully for Nesmith, all will be quite glad the Union party is finally rid of them They have been compassing its ruin during the whole time they have been connected with it The party will be distracted by their counsels no longer. They are gone over into the Copperhead and rebel coalition, and we wish them joy of their company. They can be the drudges of that party, but never its leaders That honor will be reserved for Jo Lane, O Meara, Kelly and Ben Hayden If Nesmith's supporters are ambitious to play second fiddle to these worthies nobody will envy them their position.

Ancient Beriah has seen a late copy of Abbott's Pike County Democrat, on the first page of which is an engraving of a "District School House" for the district Abbott came from, which cost (the house not the engraving), $45,000. Which ancient Beriah points to as an evidence of the respectability and enlightenment of the community in which Abbott formerly lived We don't doubt that the community is growing very respectable The fact of Abbott's leaving it is evidence enough of that A community that builds school houses worth $45,000 is not the place for such customers as he We are of opinion that no single circumstance ever added so much to the respectability of Pike county as did Abbott's departure from it. There can be no doubt but he was driven out by the growing enlightenment of the community. "Santiam Forks" is the place for him, and we are very glad he is so very near that desirable locality now

The Statesman unkindly alludes to the great mass of its party as "Copperheads" If this is not the lowest depth of ingratitude, we beg to be spared from witnessing a lower Stigmatising as "Copperheads" nineteen twentieths of those on whom its "Moses" relies as supporters of his "policy!" The Statesman's morals are as bad as its politics, and both its politics and morals are therefore as bad as can be

It is very clear from the dispatches that Gen Grant and Admiral Farragut were the lions of the Presidential party at Philadelphia Had they been absent, the visit to Philadelphia would have been a fizzle

The Oregon Statesman comes out this week as a Democratic journal, strongly supporting "My policy" and advocating the re election of Nesmith Mr Bush is understood to be its editor

The Boise Statesman says that emigrants continue to arrive in large numbers at Boise City, mostly bound for Oregon

From Mexico Desperate condition of the Imperialists.

NEW YORK, August 28.—The New York Times' correspondent, under date of City of Mexico, August, says All indications point to the speedy downfall of the Empire From Tehuantepec on the lower Pacific coast, to the extreme northern frontier every seaport is closely besieged by outlawed liberal enemies. The whole line of the northern frontier States as far east as Matamoras on the Rio Grande, and Bagdad at that river's mouth, is held by these people. On the coast of the Gulf of Mexico the Empire holds one available seaport, still we are told that even Vera Cruz is kept in a constant state of alarm by the close proximity of large liberal bands. Jalapa San Luis Potosi and Michoacan are still in an actual state of seige. The capital Puebla and Orizaba are seriously threatened by Gens. Diaz and Figuerra. Marshal Bazaine who started northward with the intention of engaging Juarez main army, and forcing it into the territory of the United States, is now hurrying back to the rescue of the capital Gen. Negra, commander-in-chief of Mexico and the surrounding departments will leave for Puebla the moment Bazaine arrives. The French army is now powerless There are at least 100 000 liberals in the field and these will sweep every enemy from their country in the first month of dry weather and good roads Large operations on account of the rain and bad roads are impossible, but great preparations are on foot for a vigorous and serious autumn campaign The revolution for the complete overthrow of the remaining strength of the Empire, and the reconstruction of the Republic, is actually begun.

NEW YORK, Aug 28—The Paris Temps, received by mail says: The Pope is on the eve of ceding the States of the Church to Napoleon, and of assuming for himself the title of Viceroy

The Paris Independence Belge, received by mail says the conditions which the Mexican Empress asks of Napoleon are, first, a prolongation of the stay of the French troops in Mexico, Second the recall of Marshal Bazaine. Third the extension of the time for the payment of the debt due from the Empire to France, which payment falls due next January Carlotta asks that the recall of the French troops be put off until April 1867 and that Napoleon furnish a certain number of French officers to organize the new Mexican army, which is to consist of the twenty battalions of 1,000 men each, the a foreign legion which will consist of about 10,000 troops. She also asks for a full complement of field and line officers for this army of 50 000 men As regards Bazaine, the Empress requests that he be re-placed by Gen Douai Brouse Since the Marshal's marriage, he seems to take more interest in home affairs than in the movements of the enemies of Maximillian's crown The loss of Matamoras is attributed to a lack of energy on his part. Moreover the Marshal is very autocratic in his conduct, so much so as to have once offended the Emperor by a curt reply as to make the latter threaten to abdicate, if Bazaine would not make the amende honorable This was made by the French commander at the urgent request of Douai, French Ambassador in Mexico

Delegates to Southern Union Convention.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The delegates to the Southern Union Convention include the following Messrs. Trumbull, Yates, Stephen A Hurlbut, Gen Cheetham, Gen Benj Prentiss, Gen. B. H. Grierson Francis A Hoffman, Robert J Ingersoll From Kentucky James Speed, Robert J Breckinridge, and S J Anderson, From Maine, Gov Cony, Ex-Gov Abner Coburn, Gen Chamberlain and Samuel Spring From Vermont, Gov Dillingham, Senators Poland and Edmunds, and Ex-Gov J G Smith

The attendance of Northern delegates will be informal, and not as if the Convention had been called as a National Convention. The Northern delegates will attend of their own accord, it being impossible to hold meetings in the lately rebellious States. The Convention may, therefore, be more appropriately called a public mass meeting for consultation and preparation for the Soldiers' National Conventions at Cleveland and Pittsburg, which go on apace but attendance at each will be voluntary and not by any organized delegations.

Money and Commercial

NEW YORK, Aug 28—The Evening Post's money article says money continues abundant stocks dull and irregular Government securities higher and advancing The quotations are bringing in large amounts from the country

Cotton unchanged Flour a shade firmer Wheat firmer Liverpool freights are quiet and drooping

The Evening Commercial says The advance in 5 20's seems to be due as much to converting them as to any large foreign demand Some moderate orders have been received from Paris which cannot be executed at the present prices of exchange and bonds. The orders appear to be from firms introducing them in the Bourse, rather than from investors Payments on account of the temporary loan have not yet produced that extensive ease in the money market which was anticipated Exchange continues very heavy There is a large excess of bills over demand

In consequence of the visit of President Johnson tomorrow, the Custom House, Sub-Treasury and Gold rooms will close at one o clock There will be no session of the Board of Brokers Business houses will be open in the morning but it is not probable that any trade will be done

Arrest of the Steilacoom Robbers—One of them shot dead.

OLYMPIA, Aug 29—The three soldiers who robbed Mr Lock's safe at Steilacoom last week were discovered yesterday afternoon about twenty miles south of this place on the stage road by Mr Calvin, in his barn, where they had slept. They could give no satisfactory reason why they were there, and offered him three U S guns for something to eat Suspecting they were the robbers he directed them to Mr Tilley's distant about two miles They started in that direction Mr Calvin saddled his horse and followed hoping to get assistance and capture them Just before arriving at Tilley's, Mr Calvin met two young men, Turner and Martin and made known to them the facts The two young men kept the robbers in sight and Calvin reached Tilley's in advance and made preparations to receive them Shortly after they all arrived The robbers becoming alarmed, started off Mr Calvin told them to stop, that they were prisoners. They being unarmed, having left their guns in Mr Calvin's barn made a break running in different directions One of them was shot dead another wounded and all were captured. Seven hundred dollars in coin of the stolen money was recovered It is reported that there is two hundred and thirty dollars in the pockets of the dead man The Coroner started to hold an inquest The two surviving robbers arrived here this afternoon in charge of the party who captured them, and are safely lodged in jail

MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The regular weekly meeting of the Common Council, Mayor Failing presiding, was held last evening.

The following members were present: Messrs. Bennett, Carson, Carter, Hallock, Lowndale, McCraken, O'Connor, [illegible] and Zieber.

The [illegible] of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The street being broken by a runaway dray horse at the corner of Taylor and First streets, was ordered repaired.—An invitation to participate on the day of the annual parade of the Fire Department was read and accepted.—The cistern top at the crossing of Seventh and Jefferson streets was ordered repaired. Petition of H[illegible] Coon, for part payment on contract for fire cisterns, was [illegible].—Burrell Bros. were granted part of Salmon and Front streets, for thirty days, in building.—McCough was granted a license to retail liquors at the Shakespeare Hotel.

A petition, signed by 323 residents—said to be—asking the repeal of ordinance No. 331, divorcing whisky and women, was read and laid upon the table.

Two [illegible] against the repeal of the same ordinance, one signed by 223 property holders, and one signed by 94 ladies—mothers, wives, sisters and daughters—[illegible] to be spared from the disgrace of having [illegible] legalized in this community, were also received.

[illegible] motion to lay the same upon the table, Mr. Rosenheim stated that the ordinance as it now existed, was a detriment to the community, that he did not see how it was that the Council had passed it, for surely we depend just as much upon the miner who came here to squander all his money with hurdy-gurdies, as we do upon the farmer who comes to buy his cheap sugar and coffee—one class came to spend money, and one to save it—give all parties a chance. We should accommodate them all.

The motion to lay upon the table was lost. Ayes—Rosenheim and Zieber. Nays—Bennett, Carson, Carter, [illegible] and O'Connor. The remonstrances were [illegible] then placed on file.

[illegible] Walker reported progress on the river [illegible], which report was read and placed on file.

A warrant was ordered [illegible] in payment of a claim for advertising, $3; all other claims against the city were referred.

On motion, the petition for the repeal of Ordinance No. 331 was taken from the table and placed on file.

An [illegible] appropriating money for the payment of [illegible] extra work on First street, passed.

An ordinance [illegible] the surplus assessment on First street, and [illegible] the same to the owners of lots, or parts of lots, entitled to the same, in the sum of $5,037 91, passed.

An [illegible] to the contract with Messrs. [illegible], for rooms for the use of the city, [illegible] relative to the repair of streets [illegible], and an ordinance appropriating $175 in payment of [illegible] on contract for fire cisterns, passed.

Further [illegible] of the ordinance repealing Ordinance No. 331, was [illegible] one week, on motion of Mr. [illegible].

Warrants for the collection of delinquent street assessments [illegible] Pine and Vine streets, were ordered to be placed in the hands of the City Marshal for collection.

On motion, the Council adjourned.

[illegible]—The following proceedings were had on board the steamship Montana, Capt. J. R. Kelly, of the Anchor Line on Monday last:

On board Steamship MONTANA AT SEA,
August 27th, 1866.

A meeting of the [illegible] being called on motion Dr. Wm. Davis was [illegible] Chairman, and Rev. W. J. Finley, Secretary. The object of the meeting was [illegible], on motion a committee of three was [illegible] to draft resolution, expressive of the [illegible]. The Chairman announced the following committee: Messrs. James Davis, G. W. Vollum, and O. Greenhood. On motion, the Secretary was added to the committee. The committee [illegible] the following:

Whereas, We, the [illegible] are desirous of expressing our satisfaction with the superior accommodations of this [illegible], the [illegible] deportment and [illegible] of the officers and crew. Therefore,

Resolved, That our thanks are hereby tendered to the Captain and [illegible] for their untiring efforts to render our voyage [illegible] and [illegible].

Resolved, That we cheerfully recommend this line to the traveling public as worthy of their continued patronage.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions and proceedings be forwarded to the San Francisco and Oregon papers for publication.

(Signed) Jas. Davis, G. W. Vollum, O. Greenhood, [illegible] Committee.

The [illegible] of the committee was unanimously adopted. The [illegible] stated Messrs. F. DeWitt and J. [illegible] testimonials, and present the [illegible] to the Captain—John R. Kelly, and [illegible] Jarvis. The Committee [illegible] said testimonials a silver [illegible] for Capt. Kelly, and a silver goblet [illegible] to be suitably inscribed.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

W. A. FINLEY, Secretary.
WM. DAVIS, Chairman.

[illegible] purchased at G[illegible] & Bro., [illegible] on board the steamship Montana yesterday. The first was a solid silver cup, covered with gold, and bearing the following inscription: "[illegible] to Capt. J. R. Kelly, on [illegible] the [illegible] Montana to Portland." The [illegible] silver cup, also lined with gold, [illegible] the Ladies, P[illegible]. Such action is of great interest to [illegible] time, and really speaks more [illegible] of the Anchor Line. Comment [illegible].

[illegible] frail damsels from the Celestial Empire [illegible] before Judge Hoffman yesterday, on [illegible] houses of ill fame. The want of evidence to convict, necessitated their discharge. [illegible] something ought to be done on this [illegible] be of service to the community. It is [illegible] that Chinese brothels do exist in the city, [illegible] of people. In the first and second [illegible] the house of Willamette Engine Company [illegible] from First street, and in fact in various [illegible] Morrison and Alder streets, these [illegible] are to be seen at all hours of the [illegible] that class of degraded humanity who [illegible]. If one or two united efforts were [illegible] on the part of those citizens most molested, [illegible] bawdy houses would grow less [illegible] in a short space of time.

[illegible] ACADEMY AND FEMALE SEMINARY.—We learn [illegible] will be opened next Monday, with Prof. [illegible] as Principal, [illegible] by a corps of [illegible]. Prof. Gatch is a teacher of acknowledged ability and large experience, having been for [illegible] years [illegible] of the Willamette University [illegible], where he was much respected both by parents [illegible] pupils, and was highly [illegible]. Under his management the [illegible] will be raised to a high degree [illegible] ample facilities for attaining [illegible] education. Portland needs an institution of [illegible] of this kind, [illegible] we believe our people will sustain it. The public schools are well conducted and are a credit to the city, but they are overcrowded, and do [illegible] will have. We hope to see the [illegible] that under Prof. [illegible] it will be [illegible] and support.

[illegible]—The [illegible] snag in the river, that is, at least the one which has given the [illegible] was [illegible] on Wednesday, by the snag puller [illegible]. At [illegible] times nearly every [illegible] these waters has given it a tug, but [illegible]. A year or more ago, the bottom of the [illegible] badly raked upon this snag, and [illegible] of the main channel has made [illegible] and pilots. At one [illegible] a parcel [illegible] of very large [illegible] at this snag. When taken out on [illegible] carefully laid out of harm's way upon [illegible]. The dimensions were as follows: [illegible] at the butt, 7 feet. The [illegible]. It was waterlogged and very [illegible] perfectly easy, displacing [illegible] but three feet six [illegible] of water, beneath the surface [illegible] by 60 feet in length.

[illegible]—Several assaults, some in [illegible] that is to say a "mash" in the mug, [illegible] have been called to the attention of the police [illegible] of this city. Wm. Smith will be examined to-day before Judge Hoffman on a charge of this nature. [illegible] yesterday paid a fine of $5 and costs, for [illegible] "laying off" the sable cheek of a [illegible] Vance and Sweeny, [illegible] for rival lines, got into a similar difficulty, but [illegible] the matter as provided by section [illegible] by paying costs of process.

LAWN FESTIVAL.—To-night, the festival in aid of Trinity Parish, comes off at Oro Fino Hall. An object so worthy and [illegible] cannot but command the patronage of all classes of whatever denomination. The individual who contributes aid in the most humble manner [illegible] of religion, morality and the well being of [illegible], benefits not only his own [illegible] but that of society at large. We [illegible] an affair of this kind, and we are sure that the [illegible] of Portland, by their numerous [illegible] will sustain their reputation [illegible].

NEW LAMP.—[illegible] Wm. H. Hand has left at our office [illegible] in the shape of an atmospheric coal oil gas lamp, which he is agent for the sale of in Oregon. [illegible] in another column, and may be obtained at Shanahan & Dufrene's. Having tried it [illegible] it to the public; or in other words, we [illegible] can endorse all that has been said in favor of the lamp.

[illegible] was arrested yesterday for having [illegible] to his own use a garment belonging either to a patron of a clothes cleaner named Marks, on Washington street, or to Marks himself. The stolen property was lodged at the Police office, and the accused was lodged in the [illegible] of the [illegible] in which Sheriff [illegible].

ERRATA.—In the list of licences in the Tax List yesterday [illegible] lawyers and land warrant brokers were published as liable to a license of $25. It should have been $10 each. Tobacconists should be $10 instead of [illegible] and inland bills of lading are exempt from stamp duty.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamers Montana and California both leave this evening for the above named port. The Fideliter will also sail this evening for Victoria.

[illegible].—The excursion to have been given by the Steamer [illegible] yesterday, was postponed, in consequence of unfavorable weather.

[illegible]—David Dennison was held to answer, on [illegible] before Judge Hoffman yesterday, on a charge of selling liquor to Indians.

RAIN.—A [illegible] old fashioned rain shower visited the region about us yesterday, lasting the day long.

STATE ITEMS

The Supreme Court of this State will meet at Salem on Monday Sept. 3d.

Roseburg is said to be enjoying a revival—of improvements.

Captain Sprague of the Oregon Infantry, has been on a recent visit to his home in Jackson county.

It is expected that Capt. Sprague's company will be mustered out about the first of October.

A little son of Dr. Davis aged only two years fell from the second story window this week to the ground and escaped without serious injury, says the Sentinel.

The taking of depositions preparatory to contesting the seats of Lampson and Laughlin was closed before Justice Hembree last week, says the Courier.

Dr. J. McBride, late U. S. Minister Resident at the Sandwich Islands, left for his old home in Yamhill county immediately upon his arrival here a few days ago. He will reside permanently there.

A correspondent in Yamhill makes inquiry of us if Mr. Henderson, our Congressman, has arrived home. Mr. Henderson arrived by the Oraziba, August 19th, and immediately went on to Eugene City. Mention was made of it at the time in our local column.

The Sentinel says: We have in our office a solid block of white oak evidently taken from the forks of a tree, in which are imbedded three points of a deer's antlers. The wood is perfectly sound, and from appearances must have surrounded the horns several hundred years since.

In Josephine county, the question of annexation to Jackson is being seriously considered. Within the last year the expenses of the former County were $11,595 58, while the receipts were only $10,402 38, making a deficit of $1,192 70.

Mr. A. L. Brown, who has just returned to Walla Walla from Montana, says: A party of emigrants from Oregon had reached the Clark's Fork or Bitter Root country, having traveled the Mullan road in wagons, with out loads. They had a severe time of it, being compelled to cut their way through the Coeur d'Alene and St. Regis canons, traveling along the beds of the streams and finding many parts of the road as bad as though it had never been made.

On Thursday last, says the Sentinel, a man named Wm. Wells was arrested by Sheriff Owen, charged with stealing a horse from F. A. Smith, of Roseburg, on the night of the 16th inst. He was found at Applegate, with the stolen horse in his possession, and although stoutly declaring that he had obtained the animal at Portland, appearances were so much against him that he was taken to Roseburg in charge of James Baily, who had traced him to this valley.

Our list of "solid men of Portland" has brought out a response from a Jefferson correspondent, who claims that the postmaster at that place is a heap solider than any of 'burn, weighing 267 pounds. Our friend says he is an anomaly, too, being a positive Congress man, and at the same time a "solid" (H.) A. Johnson man. Our postmaster friend, H. A. Johnson, does not cast his weight in the A. Johnson scale.

The first number of the American Unionist was issued at Salem on Monday the 27th, by W. A. McPherson (late of the Albany Journal) and Wm. Morgan—McPherson, editor. It is the same in size as the Statesman, got up in good mechanical style and well filled with sound Union editorial and selected matter. It endorses most emphatically the politics of the Union men who fought for, sympathized with and upheld the Government while it was passing through the fearful ordeal of insurrection and civil war. We welcome the Unionist most heartily to our exchange list and wish it the greatest possible success.

FROM THE INDIAN COUNTRY

The Jacksonville Sentinel of the 25th, has the following:

Through the kindness of Captain Sprague, we furnish the following information from the Indian country:

About two weeks since, Capt. Walker, 14th U. S. Infantry, with 15 men, pursued Paulina with two or three hundred Indians, from near Camp Smith to Camp Alvord in Stein's mountain. Finding the Indians in a canyon, he attacked them, but was forced to fall back to Camp Smith. Capt. Walker's horse was killed under him and one of his command slightly wounded, nearly all the boys had bullet holes in their clothing. Paulina is coming west, pursued by Major Marshall, with part of several companies.

Camp Alvord was burned by the Indians about a month after its abandonment. A Camp has been established at Pine Grove, on the east side of Warner's Lake, where one Company 14th Infantry are stationed, with Capt. Collins, a very energetic officer in command. This company will probably winter at Fort Klamath, relieving Company I, 1st Oregon Infantry. Captain Sprague left for Camp Alvord with 33 men of Company I, 1st Oregon Infantry, in September last; 18 of his command returned to Ft. Klamath in November, leaving him only 15, ten of whom, with Lieut. Chapman, were subsequently mustered out. The Captain returned to Fort Klamath on the 20th inst, with the remaining 5, and immediately assumed command of that post.

BRONCHITIS.—From Mr. C. H. Gardener, Principal of the Rutgers Female Institute, New York, May 14, 1858: "I have been afflicted with Bronchitis during the past winter, and found no relief until I found your Troches." "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough Lozenges, give prompt relief in Coughs, Colds and Throat Diseases, and are for sale throughout the United States and most foreign countries.

The Portland Academy and Female Seminary will re-open Monday, September 3d.

THE LATEST STYLE OF FINE ART PICTURES.

The attention of the public is invited to the fact that JOSEPH BUCHTEL'S PIONEER GALLERY, corner of First and Morrison streets, Portland, Oregon, is the only place in this State where those beautiful SUN PEARLS are produced in a manner equal to the art in San Francisco, New York or European cities. S. T.—1860—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in Bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

The Star-Spangled Banner.

[A friend has looked up, copied and handed us for publication, the following stirring poem, which originally appeared in the London Punch of Dec. 15, 1860.—Eds. Memphis Post.]

The Star-Spangled Banner, that blows broad and brave,
O'er the home of the free, o'er the hut of the slave,
Whose stars in the face of no foe e'er turned pale,
And whose stripes are for those that the stars dare assail.

Whose folds every year broader and broader have grown,
Till they shadow both arctic and tropical zone;
From the Sierra Nevada to Florida's shore,
And like Oliver Twist are still asking for more.

That banner, whose infantile bunting can boast,
To have witnessed the Union's great charter engrossed;
Which at Boston saw Freedom's stout struggle begun,
And from Washington welcomed its victory won;

For our fathers in rebel defiance it spread,
But to us it wears brotherly greeting instead;
And concord and peace, not Bellona and Mars,
Now support England's Jack and the States' Stripes and Stars.

Can it be there are parricide hands that would tear
This Star-Spangled Banner, so broad and so fair?
And if there be hands would such sacrilege try,
Is the bunting too weak the attempt to defy.

Alas! while its woof Freedom wove in her loom,
She paused in her work, and the Fiend took her room,
And seizing the shuttle that Freedom had left,
Threw Slavery's warp across Liberty's weft.

How the Fiend laughed and leaped as the swift shuttle flies,
With its blood-rotted threads the fair weft running through;
Now cast out the web; it is broad, it is long;
'Twixt Fiend's work and Freedom's let's hope it is strong.

And now that the blood-rotted warp is laid bare,
The Flag it is praying—the Flag it may tear;
'Tis the Fiend cheers on those who to tear it essay,
For the work he's had hand in is apt to give way.

Now Heaven guide the issue; may Freedom's white hands,
Ere too late, from the Flag pluck the blood-rotted strands,
And to battle and breeze fling the banner in proof,
That 'tis all her own fabric in warp and in woof.

If this may not be—if the moment be nigh
When this banner unrent shall no more float the sky,—
To make fit division of beams and of bars,
Let the South have the Stripes and the North have the Stars.

"Mocking's Catching."

A STORY WITH A MORAL.

Bill Beeler was one of those lamentable specimens of fallen human nature whose total depravity manifests itself in the most trying of all possible forms—an unconquerable propensity for practical joking. Fun was the only serious business of his life, and serious enough it often proved to those at whose expense his intolerable pranks were played.

For what precise breach of juvenile decorum he was dismissed from the district school at a tender age, and for what graver levity—for it is only by a contradiction in terms we are able to express the contradictions of his character—he was expelled from college at a later date, it is scarcely worth the reader's while to inquire. Suffice it to say, on both occasions the culprit was convicted on circumstantial evidence afforded by the overdone gravity with which he contemplated the catastrophe of his mischief, while others were splitting their sides with laughter. The exploits of his subsequent career, it would be equally profitless to recall. A tithe of them would fill a volume which nobody would be the better for reading. Indeed, the only instructive adventure of his life is the one we are about to relate.

It is necessary to a proper understanding of our story to premise, that among our hero's accomplishments, not the least noteworthy was a thorough acquaintance with the language of brutes. There was not an animal within the range of his zoological acquaintance with which he was not capable of conversing intelligently in his vernacular tongue. If he [illegible] at night in the alley, he was sure of a dozen responses from the tops of the adjacent walls and the roofs of the neighboring sheds. He could neigh, bray, bellow, cackle, grunt, squeal and gobble, like a whole barnyard in commotion, and, besides, had a smattering of ventriloquy.

If you seek to know what business took Bill a hundred miles from home to the obscure village of Gandertown, where nothing was going on, and very slowly at that, we answer none; if you ask what else it was, we frankly confess our inability to tell; and, in short, we might as well say at once that it will be useless constantly to stop us with the inquiry, "Why did Bill do this?" or "Why didn't he do that?" as no living being could tell why he did or didn't do anything or everything.

On the evening of Bill's arrival, it so happened that in consequence of a break-down of the daily stage coach—one of those rickety, old-fashioned vehicles, with a "boot" protruding behind, resembling the organ of philoprogenitiveness, "full"—he found the only hotel in the place crowded to overflowing. The landlord's accommodations were quite as scanty as the patience of his guests. In proportion as everybody else was cross and uncomfortable, Bill was delighted. His fun, it is true, for the mishaps of others, but the feeling was one of unalloyed pleasure. The turmoil produced by a dozen excited travelers, all wanting to be waited on at once; the landlord in a collapsed state of confusion, endeavoring to attend to everybody and giving satisfaction to nobody; the cook taken suddenly ill, and the hired man dangerously drunk—all taken together constituted one of those occasions when Philosophy loses her balance and falls, as you or I do. To Bill the occasion was glorious. He condoled with the sufferers; but in such a way as to remind them of every annoyance which they might else have happily forgotten, and comforted them with the assurance that the worst part of the road was to come, on which one or more upsets were next to inevitable, and a fair average of broken limbs highly probable.

Among the delayed passengers was a grave looking elderly gentleman, who alone preserved his composure amid the prevailing discontent. Even Bill's eloquent portrayal of the common calamity failed to disturb his gravity. He took no part in the general grumbling at an indifferent supper extemporized without the aid of the cook, and bearing no distant resemblance to Foote's "dinner without a cook." So imperturbable was the stranger's good humor that Bill at last began to feel piqued at it; but when the landlord, who had never before been called upon to furnish lodgings for more than a "solitary horseman" at once, announced that, under the pressure of circumstances, the grave looking man and Bill were not only to be room-mates, but bedfellows, the latter brightened up perceptibly, evidently supposing there was fun ahead and there was.

Bill retired early, and by the time the serious gentleman entered the apartment, was fast asleep. The latter was proceeding to make, or rather unmake, his toilette, when he was startled by a growling sound which seemed to come from under the bed, and was of the same tone and pitch usually employed by a couple of unsociable terriers in passing the compliments of the season. The stranger took the candle, or, to speak more accurately, his share of the one which had been equitably divided among the guests, and started up to search for the intruder, but, like Byron's Don Alonzo, he found "not that he sought." He was continuing his explorations, when Bill awoke with a sudden start.

"What's the matter?" he exclaimed, with a glance of suspicion, as though he had detected his companion in an attempt at robbery.

"I thought I heard a dog under the bed," quietly returned the stranger, "and wished to turn him out."

"I am sorry," said Bill, with a look of well-affected embarrassment, "to have caused you any disturbance, but the doctor tells me that unless I suffer a relapse, the only remaining effect of my late malady will speedily disappear."

"What was the nature of your illness?" kindly inquired the other.

"The truth is," answered Bill—"in fact, I ought to have mentioned it sooner, but I felt a delicacy in alluding to the subject—I was, some months since, bitten by a mad dog"—here he showed his teeth with a decidedly canine expression—"and was subsequently attacked with unmistakable hydrophobia. Whether I bit anybody in my paroxysms is more than I can tell, for I have no recollection of anything that took place during the continuance of the symptoms, and my friends have been very careful, under the instructions of the physician, to conceal every occurrence which might serve to remind me of my recent indisposition. I may state, however, that I have been discharged as cured; and the doctor, as I have already observed, says that the habit of snarling in my sleep—the only remaining symptom of the disease—will disappear in time; that is if I meet with no backset."

The stranger listened with profound attention, and, at the close of the foregoing explicit statement, resumed his hat and coat and left the room. What he said and did during the quarter of an hour next ensuing, the reader will probably be able to conjecture when he is informed that, at the end of that time, he returned at the head of the landlord, his wife, the cook (now convalescent), the hired man (half sobered) and the entire batch of stage passengers; armed with pitchforks, bludgeons, and every other weapon of which the cry of "mad dog!" invariably suggests the use.

Bill heard the approaching footsteps in great glee, and anxious to play to the life the role he had assumed, he sprang from the bed, and, when the door was opened, was found in the middle of the floor, staring wildly at the water-pitcher, and barking furiously. A horrible change, at this moment, came over his features, and any doubts which might otherwise have existed as to his condition, were immediately dispelled. The upper part of his face writhed in agony; tears rolled from his blood-shot eyes and his under jaw drooped on his breast. Foam flowed copiously from his mouth, which stood hideously agape. The sounds which he uttered were no longer such as are familiar to the ear of dog or man, but a species of howl, at which the spectators—the elderly gentleman always excepted—stood completely aghast.

The truth is, Bill, in his eagerness to do justice to his part, had considerably overtasked his powers, and, in executing one of his most complicated facial contortions, had unfortunately dislocated his jaw—of all accidents the most difficult of verbal explanation by the sufferer himself.

The grave gentleman whispered something to the landlord, whose very stolidity kept him more self-possessed than the others. He nodded assent and quickly withdrew, returning within a few moments with a large fish seine under his arm, which the guests remembered to have seen hanging on the fence as they approached the house. The grave gentleman again whispered to the landlord and the hired man (who was still drunk enough to be courageous), when the two passed to Bill's rear, flanking him on either hand, while their director, backed by the armed posse, made a feint in front. The movement proved a complete success; for, in less time than it takes to tell it, the self-convicted mad man found himself enveloped, literally and figuratively, in a net-work of difficulties. Powerless as Gulliver bound with myriads of Lilliputian ropes, Bill could do nothing but submit to his fate.

When his arms and legs had been securely pinioned, the grave gentleman, who had by this time acquired a complete ascendancy over everybody present, stated that he was a practicing physician, and that everything depended on promptly subjecting the sufferer to proper treatment. To this end he directed a barber to be called; and after Bill had been forced into a chair, a hole was cut in the seine, through which his head was thrust, which the doctor held firmly by the ears, ordering the barber to shave it entirely smooth—a task which was not accomplished without inflicting divers unseemly gashes in the patient's scalp, partly owing to his own struggles, and partly to the nervousness of the operator. The doctor then sent for his valise, from which he produced an immense blister plaster, with which he completely covered the surface laid bare by the barber. Then, after mixing a composing draught of tartar emetic, which slowly gurgled down the unwilling throat of the patient, he requested to be left alone with him, alleging that absolute quiet was now indispensable.

When Bill had been placed in bed, and the spectators had withdrawn, the doctor took his place by the couch, and watched with a lively professional interest the result of his treatment. The medicine operated like a charm, and the blister drew beautifully. The doctor's eyes twinkled with satisfaction, at the end of a couple of hours, he placed his hands soothingly on the patient's head, and face. Then, suddenly shifting his thumbs to the angle of the jaw and his fingers to the chin, by a scarcely perceptible and apparently quite accidental movement, the sunken jaw was made to resume its place and the sufferer at once regained his speech, the first of which, we are sorry to say, was not an expression of thanks to his benefactor. But, on reflection, Bill concluded that the less he said the better—a decision to which it is probable he owed his escape from a coat of tar and feathers, a form which the sympathies of the lately terrified guests would have been very likely to take had they known the whole truth.

In the morning Bill was well enough to travel, and, with his head swathed in a bandage anointed with mutton tallow, and adorned with a soft hat, rather the worse for wear, with which the landlord was kind enough to accommodate him in exchange for his fashionable stove-pipe, he departed a sadder, if not a wiser man; and he has never, to our knowledge, exhibited any symptoms of a relapse.

The New Army Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 29th.—The new Army bill meets the approval of General Grant, Secretary Stanton, and military men generally.

The bill passed fixes the military peace establishment at five regiments of artillery, ten regiments of cavalry, and forty-five regiments of infantry. The artillery force remains as now organized, and the First, Second, Third and Fourth regiments are to have the same organizations as is now prescribed for the Fifth. The cavalry force is made up by adding to the six regiments now in the service four regiments more, two of which shall be composed of colored men, having the same organization as is now provided by law for other cavalry regiments. The original vacancies in the grade of first and second Lieutenants shall be filled by selection from among the officers and soldiers of volunteer cavalry, and two-thirds of the original vacancies in each of the regiments above that of First Lieutenants shall be filled by selection from among the officers and soldiers of volunteer cavalry, and one-third from officers of the regular army, all of whom shall have served two years in the field during the war and shall have been distinguished for good conduct. Any portion of the cavalry force may be armed and drilled as infantry at the discretion of the President.

The infantry section of the bill enacts that the forty-five regiments of infantry provided for shall consist of the First and Tenth Regiments, of ten companies each, now in service; of twenty-seven regiments of ten companies each, four regiments of which shall be composed of colored men, and four to be called the Veteran Reserve Corps; and all the original vacancies in the grades of First and Second Lieutenants and one-half of the original vacancies in each of the grades above that of First Lieutenant shall be filled by selections from officers and soldiers of volunteers, and the remainder from officers of the regular army, all of whom shall have served two years during the war and have been distinguished for capacity and good conduct.

The Veteran Reserve Corps shall be officered by selection from officers and soldiers of volunteers or regulars wounded in line of duty during the late war, and who may yet be competent for garrison or post duty. The minimum of privates in an infantry company is fixed at fifty; the maximum at one hundred. Enlistments in cavalry shall be for five years; in artillery and infantry for three years. Wounded men not unfit for light duty may be enlisted exclusively for the Veteran Reserve Corps. Provision is made for one General, one Lieutenant General, five Major Generals and ten Brigadier Generals.

The Provost Marshal's Bureau must be abolished within thirty days.

TENNESSEE AND THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.—Statements made by Hon. Horace Maynard, who has just arrived here from Nashville, remove all doubt of the entire regularity of the ratification by the Tennessee Legislature of the Constitutional Amendment. He says there were present in the House when the vote was taken 56 members, which is exactly a two-thirds quorum of 84, the whole number of authorized members. But owing to deaths and resignations, the entire number of actual members is only about 70; so that, in that sense, there was an excess of a quorum.

Of the 56 present when the vote was taken, 43 voted for the amendment and 11 against it, while the remaining two refused to vote. In this state of facts the Speaker of the House, Heiskell, who is opposed to the amendment, ruled that as a quorum had not voted, the amendments were not ratified. An appeal was taken from his decision, and the House overruled it and directed him to carry out its decision. Heiskell refused to obey this order, and may be expelled for his contumacy. If the question of expulsion should be raised, it would be carried by a large majority unless the absentees rush to Washington to contest the point, which they are not likely to do, as in that case the amendment could be brought up again for action, when all of them would be compelled to vote upon it, or place themselves in the attitude of contumacy. It seems to be admitted that, in order to give legality to the ratification, it was necessary not only that a quorum should be present, but that it should also vote. There can be little doubt that Mr. Maynard is correct in his proposition that two-thirds of all the actual members of the Legislature constitute the "two-thirds" required for the passage of any measure dependent upon a two-thirds vote. That has been the practice of each House of Congress during the absence of the rebel States, whose vacant seats have not been counted.—Washington Letter, July 24.

MCCLELLAN IN COMMAND OF THE AUSTRIAN ARMY.—The strategy of the Austrians shows indubitably that McClellan, and not Benedek, is in command. It has been stated that the two were intimate friends, and everything goes to show that Benedek simply lends his name, while McClellan does the strategy. It is plain to be seen that George B. intends to draw the Prussians into the interior of Austria, where he will hold them "like a vice," until the whole army dies of old age. If anything were needed to confirm this view, it would be the language of the official bulletin in which Benedek announces the overwhelming defeat at the battle of Sadowa. Benedek says that "for strategical reasons he has concluded to withdraw from that position!"—Columbus Journal.

Governor Patton has sent to Huntsville, for Marshall county, Alabama, 550 sacks of corn, 500 for Blount, 500 for De Kalb and 500 for Madison. He has also sent to Scottsboro, Jackson county, 1,000; to Courtland 1,000 and to Tuscumbia 200 sacks. Further supplies will be sent forward.

A Spicy Letter—A Fenian Talks Out in Meeting.

L. H. O'Connor, District Head Center of Chicago, has written a very strong letter, in regard to the political policy of the Fenian Brotherhood. He says:

* * As to the line of policy adopted by the Fenian Brotherhood, is there anything wrong in this, the nineteenth century, for the only Irish national organization in existence to declare that henceforth they and the Irish people (whom they have a right to speak for), are in favor of universal liberty, that they are willing to give to others what they claim for their own people? Why, sir, this has been the doctrine of every martyr to Irish liberty; the doctrine of Burke, Grattan, Shiel, Sheridan, O'Connell, and every Irish statesman from the days of Strongbow down to the present time; the doctrine of Carrolan, Moore, Davis and the gentle Griffin, and every poet whose name has been identified with the songs and poetry of the Green Isle; the doctrine of the people of every age in Ireland; the doctrine of the emigrant, when he bids farewell to all that is dear to him on earth and steps aboard of the emigrant ship that brings him to the land of his adoption. There is not a people on the earth that loves liberty and hates tyranny with such intensity as the Irish people. And yet we are accused of selling our "Irish-American" friends, because we have the honesty, in this age of enlightenment, to adopt for our people a platform of equal rights to all mankind; because we have the honesty to give to others what we claim for ourselves; because we have cut ourselves loose from all party ties, so that, in the future, we can vote for the men who will befriend us.

HOW THE COPPERHEADS HAVE GULLED THE IRISH.

To show how the Irish people have been gulled by the defunct Democratic party, I will again refer to the emigrant who lands upon our shores with an eternal hatred to tyranny and oppression in every shape and form. He is told by the self-constituted political hacks of his race that he must stifle his love of liberty and shake hands with the friends of slaveocracy; that here a great party rules the nation—a party that loves the smiling faces of the sons and daughters of Erin, and that, in order to be a freeman, he must ally himself with this party. And, in his simplicity, he believes it, and forthwith his application for citizenship is recorded. He settles down among his friends—attends the political gatherings of the party to which he has attached himself. He enters a spacious hall and hears a bloated office-seeker haranguing the faithful. The policy of the Republicans and all the isms of the day are denounced as monstrous. The Irish are landed for their fidelity to the party. The emigrant is pleased and swears to be true to the party. He goes home to his wife and little ones and tells them what a good man that was and what he would do for the Irish; etc. All this the poor dupes swallow. The day of nomination comes. Three or four of the pillars meet in a back room and make up the ticket for the coming election. One timid individual suggests a prominent place on the ticket for the Irish. He is met with a very scornful look from Pillar No. 1. "No," says he; "to hell with the Irish! They will vote the ticket any way. We will give this office to a German; this to a Know Nothing; this to a wavering Republican; this to another German; this to another Know Nothing." and so on until they got to the tail end, when some hungry Irishman is presented with an office that costs him a fortune to acquire. The honest Irish voter cannot see why the Irish are not better represented on the ticket, but he is told it is impertinent in him to make such inquiries. Thus the farce is played year after year. Thus the Irish people are insulted by their professed friends. But there is an end to all this, notwithstanding the effort of the Chicago Times and its correspondents. Indeed, the Times goes so far as to say that those who will not vote the ticket are traitors to their country, their race, their religion and themselves. I deny that the Times is an impartial judge upon the three first counts of these charges; for it is well known that the "responsible editor" of that sheet has spent the greater part of his life denouncing his country, his race, and the religious opinions of other men. As for the last count in the indictment, I will admit he is true to himself, for it is currently reported he looks out for No. 1.

Now, in order that the public may know who the real enemies of the Fenian Brotherhood and the Irish people are, I will here state that such sheets as the Chicago Times, and the parties who indorse their teachings, are, and have been the bitterest enemies of the Fenian Brotherhood.

A year or two ago there was a movement on the part of the officers of the Army of the Tennessee to secure a monument to the memory of Major General McPherson, and some $6,000 were raised for this object.
